ROBBERS GOT $15,000

Big Haul Made by the Lake Shore Bandits.

THE BRAVE ENGINEER PRAISED.

He Ran His Train to Kendalville, Although Severely Wounded...The Gang Composed of About 20 Men-Messenger Deaf From the Dynamiting.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—The United States express safe in the train held up and dynamited by robbers on the Lake Shore road is believed to have contained about $15,000, including a shipment from Chicago to . New York bank.

The passengers and trainmen praise the engineer for his bravery and tell of how he ran the train into Kendalville, though seriously wounded. Arriving at Toledo, he was taken to his residence and given professional attendance. The only passenger who showed a disposition to fight the robbers was an old man in one of the sleeping cars. He rolled up his sleeves, pulled a revolver out of his hip pocket and said: "Come on, men; I'll head a party to go forward and stop these d-d cowards." Nobody was willing to join him in the hazardous undertaking and he gave

The train had left Chicago at 7:45 p. m., and consisted of two express cars, a baggage car and 10 coaches. About 19:45, at Kessler Station, near Kendalville, Ind., the train was flagged and when the engineer brought the train to a stop, he and the other trainmen were covered by Winchesters in the hands of about 20 men. The engineer tried to start his train again and was shot in the shoulder for his trouble. As the train stopped a terrific explosion was heard. The robbers had put dynamite under the train, and as the stillness of the lonely place was broken the express car cracked and split and showed a huge gash in its side. Shot after shot was fired at the car, but the robbers soon saw they could gain no entrance by intimidation, and developments showed that they were prepared for the resist-

The messenger sent shot after shot at the robbers through the opening, but was soon disarmed, and a blow on the head knocked him to the floor senseless. The robbers then deliberately went to work to blow open the safe. One dynamite cartridge after another was used. The first had no apparent effect on the safe, but after four had been discharged it was seen that the safe was giving away, and as the report from the fifth died away the robbers could help themselves to anything the iron box had previously contained, which they proceeded to do, leaving nothing behind them in the way of cash or valuables.

The guards who had been placed at the doors of the passenger coaches were called off, a few parting shots were fired, perhaps in the air to warn those on the train that pursuit meant death, and the band of robbers disappeared in the wooded stretch of land that skirts the railroad.

The sheriff of the county, aroused from bed, called on all near him for Kendalville were speeding along the highway to the scene of the robbery. They scoured the vicinity, beat through the brush and traveled miles through the woods, but they could find nothing. Surmising that the robbers had come from Chicago, the sheriff routed out a telegraph operator and wired to the Chicago police the story of the robbery. The police here immediately began a watch for the robbers.

So far as learned none of the passengers were molested or robbed. The noise caused by the crashing of the express door when the dynamite bomb was hurled against it was the first intimation the passengers had that the train was in the hands of robbers. There was a lively scramble among the passengers to crawlunder seats and secrets what valuables they had in sight, such as watches and other jewelry.

The express messenger was rendered entirely deaf by the noise of the dynamite explosion. Defrauded Insurance Companies.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—William B. Gregg of Duluth, who, after obtaining insurance of $14,000 from several eastern companies, and who was reported to have been drowned on July 20, last. was arrested in New York city and brought here to await requisition papers from Minnesota. The arrest was made at the request of the Fidelity Mutual Life association of this city. Clark, who was with Gregg in the boat and swore to the drowning, is also under arrest in this city and will be taken with Gregg to Duluth. The companies telegraphed on Monday to Duluth for the arrest of one Frederick E. Krevenbuhl of Duluth, the brotherin-law of Gregg, and who is alleged to be one of the conspirators, and he was Repeal in the House.

WILL BE REPORTED TOMORROW.

Senator Mitchell Argues For Three Hours Against Repeal of the Sherman Act The House Holds Another Unimportant

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 .- The Tucker bill for the repeaal of the federal election laws will be reported to the house of representatives tomorrow, and debate thereon will probably begin at the next succeeding session. This action was determined upon at the meeting of the committee on election of president and vice president and representatives in congress. The session was comparatively brief and was devoted largely to a consideration of the report prepared by Mr. Tucker in support of his bill. The majority adopted the report and would have voted to present it to the house immediately had not the Republican members of the committee, under Inspector Snyder has telegraphed from the lead of Messrs, Johnson (N. D.) and Curtis (N. Y.), asked to be allowed to present their views simultaneously with those of the majority. Thereupon it was voted to report the bill tomor row, at which time the two reports will be filed.

Senator Mitchell (Or.) occupied the attention of the senate for three hourin an elaborate argument against the bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act. After he got through there surung up between Senators Teller (Colo.) and Hawley (Conn.) quite a spirited discussion, into which finally Mr. Stewart (Nev ) entered. Then, as the hour was late and senators were weary of the debate, a motion to proceed to executive business was welcorred on all sides.

Again the house held an utterly unimportant session. Mr. Morse (Mass. expressed his regard for newspaper men that regard having been quetioned by a portion of the press. Hepburn (la.) vainly endeavored to se cure the passage of a resolution (though he effected its reference) calling for information relative to the transportation of goods between United States portover Canadian territory, and Mr. Rich ardson (Tenn.) reported (for recommit tal only) a bill having for its purpose: reduction of the expenditure in the way of public printing and binding.

The National Convention Now in Session

Washington, Sept. 13, -The convention called by the New York board of A Measure Framed For Its trade and transportation, on Aug. 21, to consist of delegates appointed by the various commercial bodies throughout the country, was called to order by Darwin R. James, president of the New York board. About 125 delegates were present. These were pretty evenly divided between the east and west Mr. James said that more than 1.300 invitations had been issued, to which at least 300 replies were received. Of these replies but one advocated the continued purchase of silver bullion. The others favored unconditional repeal. Mr. B. H. Warner of the Washington board of trade was temporary president. R. Richie of Cleveland was elected temporary secretary. Ex-Senafor Hill of Colorado addressed the meeting on free silver and in opposition to the repeal of the Sherman act.

Congressmen Bryan of Nebraska, Pence of Colorado and Dr. Everett. [Special Correspondence.] WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The young men of the house are coming forward. The days when a man must have been in congress at least one term before he opened his mouth, save at roll call, are fading into tradition. The leader of the younger set is easily Mr. Bryan of Nebraska. He is serving only his second term in congress, but never rises to speak without getting an appreciative hearing and having the house fill rapidly from cloakrooms and corridors. Save Mr. Bland, he is the sole free coinage speaker who really commanded the undivided attention of the house in the recent debate. His rise has been that of the rocket, but his fall is unlikely to be that of the stick, for to aptness and eloquence he joins much of solidity.

William Jennings Bryan is only 12 years out of a classical college, and his shingle as an attorney had been hanging out in Lincoln, Neb., only three years when the tidal wave following the Reed congress swept him from Lincoln across the turbid Missouri to the hall of representatives in Washington.

It was a fortuitous circumstance which sent him here, for he probably would not have gained the nomination had the old timers thought a Democrat could win. There Will Be a Strong Organization For a New Western League-The Ways and Means Exhaustively Discussed - Other Interesting Baseball Gossip.

The organization of the Western league for 1894 is a foregone conclusion. It is now only a question of the cities which will be selected to form the circuit. There are enough applicants to make two good leagues. A 12 club organization could easily be formed, but it is not at all likely that such a circuit will be considered at al after the unhappy experience of the Southern league with that experiment. The cities reported as the eight to make un the new league are: St. Paul, Minneapolis, Omaha, Denver, Kansas City, Detroit, Milwaukee and Indianapolis. also considered a desirable site for a club, In 1890, he suddenly shot forward as and it may be necessary to give her a memthe Democratic congressional nominee, | bership in order to divide the octagon equally, east and west. In that case Denver may be left out or an effort be made to put one representative club into the league for St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The latter plan has been long discussed and often broached, but with no success. The idea has been to get a strong team for the twin cities, with a ground somewhere midway between the two centers and call it the Twin City Baseball club. The plan bas always failed on account of the intense rivalry between the two cities. This rivalry, one might think, should be a money making and sustaining factor for two clubs up there, but it is not. It has so happened that about all the interest in each city centered in the success of the local team against its nearby rival.

As soon as one succeeded in beating the other the beaten team was deserted almost entirely by local patrons and soon disbanded. Then the incentive to keep the victor alive being gone, it, too, laid down its bats and closed its grounds for want of patronage. It is a pity, therefore, that Minneapolis and St. Paul cannot come together. at least on this one common interest—s partnership baseball club-and turn their feeling of local rivalry into one of pride for a membership in the Western league, turn local enthusiasm into account in trying to beat out clubs from other represent trive western cities.

Should both Minneapolis and St. Paul insist on putting teams into the Western league there will be an awkwardness en countered in making out a properly balanced circuit. It would make five good baseball cities west of the Mississippi, all demanding representation and all entitled to it by reason of former memberships and patronage-viz, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Kansas City, Omaha and Denver. The other three cities would have to be selected from that Denver, though a good baseball city, would be rejected by reason of its geo graphical situation.

The circuit is bound to be an extensive one anyhow, reaching from Toledo to Kansas City and maybe to Denver, and from Mr. Pence landed in Wichita, Kan., and make a very expensive circuit on account toric times. Could you tell me if sponges are or are not divided as to sex, as are most of the lower as well as higher order of life?"

Yes, the question is really considered settled by late authorities, though at first in grave doubt. Even mollusks are, many of them, now so divided.

It is a wonderful study, Napoleon, the relation of the sexes, for instance, in the public schools of Spanish mackerel, and the communities of gasteropods, and the various types of conchifers.

Who would think that away down in the bottom of the sea, where the bones of dead men lie covered with moss and the treasures that it has taken thousands of years to accumulate upon the face of the earth lie forgotten in the back yard of a polypor echinoderm, the line is closely drawn, and the little sponges, some of them, are playing circus and pirates. while the others construct playhouses and carry dolls, while at the head of the school we may find a large carriage sponge as tutor, who tutes in summer and boards around sponging on her relatives in winter? All these are divided into two great classes, like the higher order of vertebrates.

Is it not remarkable. Napoleon, that the sponge should love and be loved at the bottom of the deep, deep sea? Do you not wonder as you think that in the show window of the druggist there are fragments of broken hearts and envy and jealousy and unrequited love?

Away down in the bottom of the sea, where the Atlantic cable and McGinty lie together, sponge yearns for sponge with a great big yearn that distance and damp weather cannot destroy.

I once knew a little quiet sponge that had no parents living, and she was given tistic faste. to introspection and absorbed knowledge. or anything else that came along, and she grew to be very beautiful, with blond tresses and features enough for a Sunday

She grew up under the eye of an uncle who did not care for her and who carved in such a way as to give her the salty and disagreeable end of the joint, and in other ways he was unpopular with her. She loved a large tan sponge with liquid eyes who sat near her on a rock the livelong day for 30 years, like an aristograt. He spoke of his love to the cruel old uncle, but he fold him to go and soak his head. And so while they suffered on, hoping for a merciful death to come and carry off the old gent, she was one day torn from the rock on which she had so long been seated that she seemed rooted to the spot, and now far away, where even the murmur of the sea is never heard, she is the top of a sour and unhappy mucilage bottle on the desk of a man who uses grammar that he has learned by ear and who gesticulates with his tongue while he writes and contributes the literature that is marked "Communicated."

Yes, Napoleon, even into all sponge life some ram must fall.

Mortimer G. Tidd, Erin Prarie, Wis. writes: "I am a constant reader and a young man of 24 years old. I have no money to speak of, but felt that I should no longer be a burden on my parents, and they agreed with me.

"I got on a train and rode as far as ! could, which brought me to a small town, where I thought I would practice medicine. There were no other physicians there, and I got off there more on that account than anything else.

"I felt encouraged to sort of make a large wild ass of my-elf partly because you had been through the same thing, and I thought it would be exciting to be busted and trust in providence, like you did, but when I practiced medicine I got arrested for not having a state license. for I did not know that I was required to have them, and the justice of the peace called me to one side and said be was my friend and would fix it for me so as that I would not be sent to the penitentiary. He would advise me to waive examination, and then he would let me go on my own reccomisance, which meant that I could flit.

Preferring to die before cold weather sets in, I give the above verbatim, hoping that it will warn some other constant reader in time.

You did wrong, Mortimer, to think that you could start away from home that way and not have moments of sadness and depression. Your hope lay in successfully outliving these periods and overcoming this nameless pain without your mother. You are now, Mortimer, like the sore

But you are chirping now in the wet grass, and you are off your perch, and the sly cat will get you if you do not get a great big move on you.

You do not say you are a physician but that is neither here nor there. You can practice even if you are not. That does not disturb you. But you must not give up just as the interest begins to deepen. You have not yet been kicked off a moving train by a copper toed conductor. That is something to remember. You can have no idea how in future years when you are a great and noted physician with a worldwide reputation and a clinic and a pharmacopa is and that conductor is introduced to you at a reception you can say:

"Ah, yes! I think I have met you before," and he will say:

"I am not able, sar, at this moment to recall the incident. Had I met one of your worldwide reputation I could hardly so soon forget it."

And you can say: "Ah, it was when I was poor and unknown that I met you, and you sternly reproached me with your heavy kip boot for not having a ticket! But let it pass. OALY A FALSE PRETENSE.

A Spasm of Patriotism Intended to Lust Sixty Days When the Slaughter Will

THE PENSIONERS.

Be Increased Washington, Sept. 1.—The attempt of the Democratic Administration to fool the people into the belief that the pension suspension scheme has been abandoned or materially modified is the subject of general and not very favorable comment tonight. It is too transparent; the pretense that it is a modification of any considerable importance of the system by which the pensioners are being slaughtered by the wholesale is looked upon as absurd. "It merely delays for 60 days the time of cutting off the heads of these men," said Congressman Curtis of New York. "Instead of suspending the pension of a man on a mere suspicion, as has been the case, and allowing aim to prove his right to have it restored, it notifies him that if he doesn't prove his right to it within 60 days be will be cut off. That's all. It merely grants him a little longer lease of life and the glorious privilege of drawing a few dollars more in pensions while he is proving over again his right to the pension which was long since conceded to be due him." Only a Trap.

That about tells the story. The new order, issued for effect, changes the situation only in the fact that it permits the pensioner to draw $12, or perhaps $24, more before being out off. In point of fact, it is intended to increase he number who will be eventually swept off the pension roll. The process of suspending summarily very man against whom the finger of suspicion could be pointed was raising such a storm of indignation that the Democratic Congressmen from the North and other Democrats from that section had warned the Administration. that to press it further in this way would be suicidal. Letters had been sent to the Pension Commissioner and information had also reached the Presilent that the rand on the soldiers was being made too openly and on too broad. grounds. It became necessary to make the public believe that the work was being checked.

This ingenious scheme was devised by which the pensioners who are at 1 tacked can be left on the pension roll while it is being done. This, it was argued, would not only make a showing of fairness, but at the same time quiet the men who are undergoing the investigation and re-examination.

Lufting Them to Sleep.

The experience has been that the moment they were suspended most of them. made such loud complaints to their Congressmen and others that they became very troublesome in working up sentiment against the plan which is expected to cut down the pension roll enormously, so it became good policy to give them an anesthetic to keep them. quiet while the process was going on. The threat of tariff changes made by the Democracy, by which all barriers against the influx of the productions of cheap foreign labor are to be thrown down, keeps all that vast army in suspense as to what the future is to be, and no permanent betterment of affairs will come until the worst is known. There is no necessity for any change, and there ought to be no change.

> The election of William McKinley, as governor of Ohio, this fall, will have a great effect in relieving the present distressed condition of the country. The tariff is at the bottom of our present trouble, and while President Cleveland can not ignore it, as his party is firmly committed to it, he in his message relegated it for the future and not immediate consideration. But an over whelming expression from the voters of Ohio in tayor of protection would give encouragement to the industrial world and assure them of support.

The Chicago extortionists are again Prices for everything are going steadily up, and quantities becoming beautifully less.

The procession of stone wagons to the asylum is a comfortable thing to look at. Incidentally it will test the wisdom of building street pavements upon sand foundations.

Arrangement, should by all means be effected for a speech in Massillon by Governor McKinley, on the Saturday before election. It is a time honored custom, and every body wants it main tained.

We have a street sweeper. Why not use it? The smells of Smyrna cannot be much worse than those of our paved streets on a hot day, with their accum. ulated nastiness very much in evidence. Away with the dirt. Abolish the emells!

The Catholic Congress at Chicago renewed the attack of the church upon the saloon business by declaring in the resolutions adopted: "We favor the enactment of appropriate legislation to restrict and regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors and emphasizing the admonition of the last plenary council of Baltimore, we urge Catholics everywhere to get out and keep out of the saloon business "

We can afford to be generous with the Chinese. They refused to register as required by the Geary law, because of the advice of American counsel that the law was uncon-titutional. The circumstance that three supreme court justices so held, while five sustained the law, proves that their feeling was not wholly without reason. They now ask that the time for registration be extended to September 1, 1894, [and this should be done.

Mr. Harter says; that the true way and a courageons way to put this country on a safe basis as respects the tariff, is to clap a tax on tea, coffee and sugar It is well to have the position frankly stated. Heretofore people who buy silks, lace and fine cigars have been paying the robber tariff. The reformers want to get those figures down, and put them up on the now free freakfast table. This, no doubt, would produce supply work to a willing hands, * the revenue desired.

"The wages of the miners here are very low, and a big strike is on * * The military is here to keep the peace.' So writes little Davy Davis, from Rose Cottage, Wales, where he is visiting with his father. This news is from free trade Great Britain. Resting as we do, under the shadow of impend ing "tariff re'orm," we can realize the facts set forth in childish language most forcibly. We want protection, factory fires, and then with men working we'll need no military "to keep the peace."

It is announced by Dr. Senner, commissioner of immigration at New York, that emigration has for the past six weeks exceeded immigration. Emigration heretofore has been insignificant as compared with immigration. About six weeks ago his attention was called to the large decrease in immigration and the heavy emigration. He therefore, of mingled pride and joy, has satisfied himself that the outgoing that THE INDEPENDENT waives for question, Mr Carnegie continues: now outnumber the incoming, but thus the moment the delightful privilege far he has been unable to obtain from the steamship companies any statistics on the subject. Dr. Senner thinks that all this is due to the enforcement of the contract labor law. Possibly it has not occurred to him that the business con dition of the country has had some thing to do with it. When there are two jobs for one man, the prospect is more alluring than when there are two men for one job. However, so long as the Italians and Slavs go home, we can find something over which to rejoice.

THE EVILS APPREHENDED.

Governor McKinley then declared that the anticipation of free trade had caused mills to shut down, and that the issue of "tariff reform" had been laid down by the Democratic party of Ohio, and he accepted it. He discussed Mr. Neal's record as a free trader, quoted Wm. L. Wilson's article in the orth American Review in support of free trade policy, and said:

"With the condition which confronts us, with idle factories and idle men in every part of the country, the present question is how can they best be set to work? The mills are closed. Will free trade start them? Will a lower tariff rekindle their fires? Will larger importations of competitive produces made by a cheaper labor increase a domestic production? If the foreign shop is to have easier access to the market with its competitive goods through a lower tariff, will that belp the American shop-? Will freer acce to the markets of competitive products increase the demand for American products and American labor? That is the question.

But, it is said, 'it has not come ' That is true, but that it will come we have the assurance of the Democratic administration and the promise of the Democratic candidate for governor. CONFIDENCE AND ZEAL.

In conclusion Mr. McKinley said This year let us accompany our confidence with zeal, with work, with a full vote. Never was a political contest in Ohio more important, never an impressive Republican majority more needed, never its accomplishment more certain, if all who believe alike will act together. I am sure the opportunity now given to the people to make their voice heard and heeded, will not pass unimproved. I do not appeal for a party triumph merely, but for a cause which is the people's cause. I rest my appeal upon the principles and policies for which the Republican party stands -protection and reciprocity, honest money and an honest ballot. These secured and continued will insure the highest interests of the people, advance the general welfare, promote our industrial development, encourage the true American sentiment, establish confidence in the future, and lift the clouds "Do we want to make it easier than it i enterprises of the people."

"No harm, miss! Who is the best judge of that?" "Mrs. Westmacott," suggested Ida slyly.

The doctor sprang from his chair. "Confound Mrs. Westmacott!" he cried, striking frenziedly into the air with his bands. "Am I to hear of nothing but this woman? Is she to confront me at every turn? I will endure it no longer."

"But it was your wish, papa." "Then I will tell you now what my second and wiser wish is, and we shall see if you will obey it as you have the first.

"Of course we will, papa."

"Then my wish is that you should forget these odious notions which you have imbibed, that you should dress and act as you used to do before ever you saw this woman, and that in future you confine your intercourse with her to such civilities as are necessary between neighbors."

"We are to give up Mrs. Westmacott?" "Or give up me."

"Oh, dear dad, how can you say anything so crael," cried Ida, burrowing Ler your earnage and then home to see what towsy, golden hair into her father's shirt front, while Clara pressed her cheek against his whiskers. "Of course we shall give her up if you prefer it."

The doctor patted the two caressing heads. "These are my own two girls again," he cried. "It has been my fault as much as yours. I have been astray, and you have followed me in my error. It was only by seeing your mistake that I have become conscious of my own. Let us set it aside and neither say nor think anything more about it."

CHAPTER XI.

A BOLT FROM THE BLUE.

So by the cleverness of two girls a dark cloud was thinned away and turned into sunshine. Over one of them, alas, another cloud was gathering which could not be so easily dispersed. Of these three households which fate had thrown together two had already been united by ties of love. It was destined, however, that a bond of another sort should connect the Westmacotts with the Hay Den-

"There is no time like the present. I will go in at ouce." He scribbled a check, put it in an envelope, put on his broad ciean away. If not, it's not only that old. Never, never shall you get from straw hat and strolled in through the garden to pay his morning call.

It was a singular sight which met his eves as he entered the sitting room of the admiral. A great sea chest stood open in the center, and all around upon the carpet were little piles of jerseys, oilskius, books, sextant boxes, instruments and sea boots. The old seaman sat gravely amid this lumber, turning it over and examining it intently, while his wife, with the tears running silently down her ruddy cheeks, sat upon the sofa, her elbows upon her knees and her chin upon her hands, rocking herself lowly backward and forward.

"Hullo, doctor," said the admiral holding out his hand. "There's foul weather set in upon us, as you may have heard, but I have ridden out many a worse equall, and, please God, we shall all three of us weather this one also, though two of us are a little more cranky than we were."

"My dear friends, I came in to tell you how deeply we sympathize with you all on his sleeve. "I have seen so little of My girl has only just told me about it."

"It has come so suddenly upon us, doctor," sobbed Mrs. Hay Denver. "I thought that I had John to myself for the rest of our lives-heaven knows that we have not seen very much of each other-but now he talks of going to sea again.'

"Aye, aye, Walker, that's the only way out of it. When I first heard of it. I was thrown up in the wind with all aback. I give you my word that I lost my bearings more completely than ever since I strapped a middy's dirk to my belt. You see, friend, I know something of shipwreck or battle or whatever may come upon the waters, but the shoals in the city of London on which my poor boy has struck are clean beyond me. Pearson had been my pilot there, and now I know him to be a rogue. But I've taken my bearings now, and I see my course right before me.'

"What then, admiral?"

It was a singular sight which met his eyes. "Oh, I have one or two little plans. I'll have some news for the boy. Why, hang it, Walker, man, I may be a bit stiff in the joints, but you'll be my witness that I can do my 12 miles under the three hours. What, then? My eyes are as good as ever, except just for the newspaper. My head is clear. I'm three and sixty, but I'm as good a man as ever I was-too good a man to lie up for another 10 years. I'd be the better for a smack of the salt water again and a whiff of the breeze. Tut, mother, it's without expense, security or delay. not a four years' cruise this time. I'll be back every month or two. It's no more than if I went for a visit in the country.' Ho was talking boisterously and heaping his sea boots and sextants back into

"And you really think, my dear friend, of hoisting your pennant again?" "My pennant, Walker? No. no. Her majesty, God bless her, has too many young men to need an old hulk like me. I shall be plain Mr. Hay Denver of the merchant service. I daresay that I might find some owner who would give me a chance as second or third officer. It will be strange to me to feel the rails of the bridge under my fingers once more. "Tut! tut! this will never do, this will never do, admiral!" The doctor sat down by Mrs. Hay Denver and patted her hand in token of friendly sympathy. "We must wait until your son has had enough then to begin to muster our resources to meet it."

"Our resources!" The admiral laughed, "There's the pension. I'm afraid, Walkmustering.

"Oh, come, there are some which you may not have thought of. For example, admiral, I had always intended that my girl should have £5,000 from me when she married. Of course your boy's trouble is her trouble, and the money cannot be spent better than in helping to set it right. She has a little of her own which she wished to contribute, but I thought it best to work it this way. Will you take the check, Mrs. Denver, and I think it would be best if you said nothing to Harold about it and just used it as the occasion served?" "God bless you, Walker, you are a true friend. I won't forget this, Walker." The admiral sat down on his sea chest and mopped his brow with his red handkerchief. "What is it to me whether you have it now. There's only one stipulation. If things should come to the worst and if the business should prove so bad that nothing can set it right, then hold back this check, for there is no use in pouring water into a broken basin, and if the lad pick himself up again with." "He shall not fall, Walker, and you shall not have occasion to be ashamed of the family into which your daughter is about to marry. I have my own plan. But we shall hold your money, my friend, and it will strengthen us to feel that it is there."

"Well, that is all right," said Dr. Walker, rising, "and if a little more should be needed we must not let him g wrong for the want of a thousand or two. And now, admiral, I'm off for m. morning walk. Won't you come too?"

"Well, goodby. I hope to have better news, and that all will come right. Goodby, Mrs. Denver. I feel as if the boy were my own, and I shall not be easy until all is right with him.

armchair an I nurried from the house. In less than half, an hour the admiral was whirled into Victoria station and throng, who jostled and pushed in the crowded terminus. His errand, which room, began now to present difficulties in the carrying out, and he puzzled over how he should take the first steps. Amid the stream of business men, each hurrying on his definite way, the old seaman in his gray tweed suit and black soft hat strode slowly along, his head sunk and his brow wrinkled in perplexity. Sud denly an idea occurred to him. He walked back to the railway stall and bought a daily paper. This he turner and turned until a certain column met his eye, when he smoothed it out and carrying it over to a seat proceeded to read it at his leisure. And indeed as a man read that column it seemed strange to him that there should still remain any one in this world of ours who should be in straits for want of money. Here were whole lines of gentlemen who were burdened with a surplus in their incomes, and who were loudly calling to the poor and needy to come and take it off their hands. Here was the guileless person who was not a professional money lender, but who would be glad to correspond, etc. Here, too, was the accommodating individual who advanced sums from £10 to £10,000

"The money actually paid over within a few hours," ran this fascinating advertisement, conjuring up a vision of swift messengers rushing with bags of gold to the aid of the poor struggler. A third gentlemen did all business by personal application, advanced money on anything or nothing. The lightest and airiest promise was enough to content him according to his circular, and finally he never asked for more than 5 per cent. This struck the admiral as far the most promising, and his wrinkles relaxed and iis frown softened away as he gazed at it. He folded up the paper, rose from the seat and found himself face to face with Charles Westmacott,

"Oh, I have been doing a little business for my aunt. But I have never seen you in London before."

There's not a breath of clean air on this side of Greenwich. But maybe you know your way about pretty well in the city? You see, I've never lived very far from it, and I do a good deal of my annts

On the way he told his companion his mission and the causes which had led to it. Charles Westmacott knew little enough of city life and the ways of business, but at least he had now or then? IN STRANGE WATERS. When Dr. Walker had departed, the admiral packed all his possessions back into his sea chest with the exception of one little brass bound desk. This he unlecked and took from it a dozen or so blue sheets of paper all mottled ove with stamps and seals, with very large V. R.'s printed upon the heads of them. He tied these carefully into a small bundle, and placing them in the inner pocket of his coat he seized his stick and hat. "Oh, John, don't do this rash thing." cried Mrs. Denver, laying her hands up-

SKETCHES OF THEIR CAREERS.

Budd Doble, Who Made World's Records With Dexter, Goldsmith Maid and Nancy Hanks-Geers, Driver of Hal Pointer, Andrews, Starr, Curry and Ketcham

Every person who takes an interest in the trotting turf of America is familiar with the names of the foremost drivers, but very few know anything of the personality of these men. Among the best known reinsmen are Budd Doble, Edward F. Geers, W. J. Andrews, George Starr, George H. Ketcham and Gil Curry.

Budd Doble was born near Philadelphia in 1845. His father was one of the foremost trainers and drivers of his generation. Mr. Doble commenced driving trotters when a mere lad, and in 1866 he rode Dexter to his saddle record of 2:18. A year later he drove the son of Hambletonian and Clara to the champion harness record of 2:17%. In 1871 Mr. Doble again had a record breaker in Goldsmith Maid, 2:17, and in his hands that mare successfully assailed the record until in 1874 she placed the trotting record at 2:14. Last year, with the incomparable Nancy Hanks, Mr. Doble again lowered the world's trotting record to 2:04. This year his stable contains four faster trotters than have ever been seen in one stable before.

Edward F. Geers was born in Lebanon Tenn., in 1851 and commenced driving har ness horses in 1872. His success was marked from the start, and many are the fast records that he has given to Tennessee's greatest horses, and especially is this true regarding pacers. Brown Hal, 2:121; at one time the champion pacing stallion was given his record by Mr. Geers, and hisuccess with Hal Pointer, 2:041/4, is well known to every horseman. Since his engagement with the Village farm his success has been simply phenomenal, and he has given records to Robert J, 2:09%; Nightin gale, 2:10%; Hal Dillard, 2:13; Wardwell, 2:14%; Globe, 2:14%; Honest George, 2:141... Merry Chimes, 2:14%; Midnight Chimes (3 years), 2:16%; Fantasy (3 years), 2:18, and ...

W. J. Andrews was born at Warsaw, N. Y., in 1864 and began driving trotters when he was 15 years old. His driving early at tracted the attention of horsemen, and he was soon installed as head trainer at the Dreamland farm, Le Roy, N. Y. After leaving Dreamland he was engaged as as sistant trainer at the Village farm, and later was installed as head trainer at the same establishment. He brought out and gave Prince Regent a record of 2:16 Jocko one of 2:1612, Mocking Bird one of 2:17%, Belle Hamlin one of 2:12%, Henri etta one of 2:17] and Nightingale one of 2:18%, and with Belle Hamlin and Justine he captured the pole record of 2:1234. The also gave records between 2:20 and 2:30 to many others in the Village farm string Since leaving the Village farm he has giver Mascot the champion pacing record of 2:04 He has also driven So Long, 2:133/4: Nomi nee, 2:17¼; George Sherman, 2:19¼, and a long list of others to their fastest records.

George Starr was born in New Jersey in 1862, and 15 years ago he commenced driv ing for Mr. Doble, in whose employ he continued until 1891, when he took charge c Mouroe Salisbury's stable. His succes with that stable is well known. He gave Direct a record of 2:06, Flying Jib one of 2:05%, and all the members of his stabl. made such a showing as at once place. him in the front rank of great trainers and drivers. This year he has a public stable, and the class of horses that are in it show how thoroughly he has the confidence of Gil Curry was born in Kentucky in 1861 and began driving trotters in 1877. He had his share of success from the first and has gradually worked himself up until now be is one of the foremost members of the profes sion. That good pacer Major Wonder, 2:10, was given his record by Mr. Curry, and Dandy, 2:14%, and the pacer Lee H, 2:144, were also pupils in his school. These form only a small proportion of the fast ones Mr. Curry has driven to their records.

George H. Ketcham was born in Toledo and about five years ago the cares of business told on him to such an extent that his physician advised him to get a horse and drive as much as possible. Acting under

Acurs 120. [Special Correspondence,]

Trenton, Aug. 21. -- Although the several states are authorized by the organic law of the land to come money, it has been many years since the privilege has been taken advantage of. New Jersey's legislature in 1786 authorized the issuing of copper coin via the sum of £10,430. The coining was done under this act by private parties on a contract with the state, three citizens named Walter Mould, Thomas Goadsley and Allen Cox being the contractors.

CHOLERA FORTY YEARS AGO.

Facts In the Memory of the Passing Generation Only. [Special Correspondence.]

Rochester, Aug.

"I was a back driver then," said one the time during the first summer the cholera was here attending funerals. I was not sick a day all the season except for a plague of boils which came to me and made my life a burden.

"Some of the victims were taken away very suddenly. I remember a doctor who was very successful in his treat ment of cholera. There were very few cholera patients in the families he attended regularly, because he made it a point to admonish them as to how they should live in order to prevent the disease. He urged them to be careful and drink only boiled water and to avoid eating uncooked fruit.

"One afternoon I saw him eating a muskmelon, and I told him it didn't look well for him to be breaking the rule he had laid down so stringently. He colored up and threw the melon away. Be fore sundown he was dead of the cholera. I don't know, of course, whether the melon did it or not, but you may be summer. I am having a joli; time. Some boys at the melon did it or not, but you may be at the hotel and I go crabbing every day. Papa sure I was careful not to eat any fruit

"You have heard no doubt of the oc casional cases of cholera patients reviving after death was supposed to have come. Well, I remember a case that gave me a great start. A woman who hved in a very tough part of the town was found lying in her rooms, as was supposed, dead from cholera. She was put into a coffin and taken to the burying ground. When the box was lifted out of the wagon, one of the men let go, and one end dropped to the ground. The lid burst, and the woman was revived by the shock. She jumped out as lively as you please and expressed her opinion of the men who were about to put her under ground in language more forcible than choice. She hadn't had cholera at all, but had been dead drunk when she was found on the floor in her house. She lived to be sent up for drunkenness

100,000 PEOPLE ON THE BORDER.

An Order Likely to Be Issued to Allow Trains to Carry Those Who Haven't

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 12.-Boomers are fast registering at the government booths, at which prospective settlers of the Cherokee strip must reg ister, make oath of good faith and pro cure a certificate setting forth that those requirements have been complied with. These booths are located on a strip of land 100 feet wide on the north and south boundiaries of the Cherokee strip. The government officers in charge of the registration booths expect to be able to issue certificates with enough expedition to supply all comers before Saturday noon.

Although there is no fighting the boomers are securing positions in the line and holding on to them with great tenacity. The lines are probably a inile long, and are compose all national ities, ages, conditions and sex. The Chinaman and American, the youth and octogenarian, the capitalist and the tramp and the women are on equal terms for once. Venders of hot coffee sandwiches, water and pie do a large business along the line. There are so many people on th.

border unable to purchase horses desiring to settle in the towns, that an order is likely be to issued allowing trains to run, with the proviso that the train time be scheduled at 12 miles per hour, about the time the average horse can make. This will be done to make it equal. There are now at this port at least 30,000 people. Some men accustomed to large crowds estimate the number at double that amount. Probably there are 100,000 people at different point, along the strip. A number will make the race on bicycles. The confirmation of the Cherokee allotments were received with a good deal of satisfaction by the Cherokees and then friends Those who have made arrangements to dispose of their land to townsite compames will now go ahead and perfect It is wonderful to note with what eas suckers are caught here by the conti-dence men. A slick individual has been selling passes to boomers who had er rands across the outlet at $2 apiece When the boomers presented the passes to soldiers they were refused and the trespassers arrested and held as "soon The troops stationed south of here are a great annoyance when they come into the city. Many of them are a disgrace to the army and are committing many acts of violence. The sale of lots i the town of Willow Springs is proceed ing briskly. This is the Cherokee town, and $5,000 worth of lots were sold. As an attraction on opening day for this town a wedding has been arranged to occur during the afternoon.

Many of Kansas City's wholesale houses reduced their forces when the financial depression began to be felt but now all the old men are back, along with others. The Cherokee strip boor is the main cause.

COAL FAMINE PREDICIED. People in Denver Will Be at the Mercy of Dealers, Denver, Sept. 12. A coal famine is predicted for the coming winter which will add to the misery of the poorer classes in the present period of business depression. The country that will be most affected by a coal famine includes a great sweep from Nebraska on the north to Texas on the south, which district is supplied by Colorado coal.

Owing to the panic few stocking orders have been given and with the first cold snap thousands of tons will be wanted and the coal companies will be called upon to meet a sudden demand coming from an hundred stations at once, which it will be an utter impossibility to meet. To add to the difficulty, it is predicted that the coal companies, to indemnify themselves from the loss of the early fall trade, will advance the price of coal $1 or more a ton and exact cash payments. The people will be at the mercy of the companies.
